RESUME:

Education: Bachelor of Science, Marine Biology, University of Rhode Island, 08/23/2002.

Goals: To record my backlog of songs, and try some professional recording. I have little desire to play live, but wouldn't mind attempting some backing tracks and "band-ify-ing" (or light backing tracks or overdubs) some of my poetic, melodic and harmonic compositions.

Musical Experience:

I. Age 12-14 (1992-1994), enjoyed Guns and Roses, Metallica, and various hard rock and heavy metal music (Floyd, Zeppelin), but switched tastes, to the Beatles, by age 15. Learned rhythm guitar and, largely, composition and theory, through these Beatles songs, and developed an affinity for classical guitar, after age 15-16 (Segovia, Kurt Schneeweiss, Rita Honti, Vivaldi via Romero Bros.). Learned fingerpicking, via, Beatles "Blackbird", and the standard beginner piece for classical guitar, "Romance" by Anonymous. Attempted Leyendia and Recuerdos de la Alhambra, though never finished them.

II. Studied classical guitar, at the University of Rhode Island, for 3 months under Daniel Salazar (known for his yearly "Guitar Under the Stars" performances, in Connecticut), in a college-oriented class (for 3 credits) in Classical Guitar Performance, with an ultimate desire that I would minor in music. My science career demanded too much of my time and I had to abandon my freshman pursuit of a music minor.

III. After working at Dunkin' Donuts, all summer long, I used every single nickel and dime (quarters were for gas, and paychecks—dollars—were for purchasing a car, insurance, and half my next semester's college books) from my whole summer of tips, to purchase about seven Dylan CD albums, to add to my initial collection of two or three. I spent 3 more years of college learning every Dylan song that appealed to me, which was probably about 90+ % of them!

IV. Earliest compositions, often burned onto a CD, simply titled "College Love Songs; 2000-2002", really, just demos, recorded on an IBM ThinkPad laptop, with nothing more than the laptop microphone and an acoustic guitar. Adapted a John Keats' poem "Bright Star" to my own melody and chords.

IV. Volunteer Disc-Jockey at WGDR Community/Goddard College (hybrid radio station) ; 91.1 FM, Plainfield, Vermont. 2013-2014, and 2015-2016.
